Editorial

We are pleased to share Janajyoti Journal Volume II as a multidisciplinary research journal published by Janajyoti Multiple Campus, Research Management Cell (JMC-RMC). JJMC-RMC provides a forum for the publication of scholarly articles on significant cultural, literary and theoretical issues with vigorous enthusiasm to establish a research culture in and around this Campus. The RMC encourages scholars and researchers to submit critical works that have a broad, conceptual and theoretical significance to a range of areas.

Research articles consist the abstract, keywords, introduction, objectives, methods, findings and conclusions over a phenomenon whatever style, method or process the researchers adopt. There are some grounding debates on qualitative and quantitative research, types of citation methods and thoughts on rationalization of logic and defense in the Nepali academia. Janajyoti Journal has adhered to APA (7th Edition) format. The published articles have been uploaded in NepJOL and are available to interested readers.

Janajyoti Journal is an attempt to unify the multidisciplinary research approaches in a single, unanimous and worldwide applicable method. Twelve articles in written English and Nepali are included in this volume. The individual articles are reviewed by different experts/reviewers. The respective authors were requested to incorporate the comments and feedback given by the reviewers. The authors who complied the reviewers' suggestions are included in the further publication process. Thorough editing was done by the editor team finally. We are very conscious of unanimity in diversity, malpractices of plagiarism, research methodologies, ethics, and codes of conduct.

We are thankful to all the authors for their rigorous works on their manuscripts till the publication phase. We extend our sincere gratitude to the peer reviewers for their painstaking efforts and contribution to the journal. Our special thanks goes to the special editor Dr. Sharad Chandra Simkhada. Finally, we expect critical feedback from valued readers for the improvement of forthcoming issues and volumes of this journal.
